Thinking Out Loud

(By H. M. L.)

Two of the Dione quintuplets are walking, or at least making those first feeble gestures of locomotion. Presently all five will take to their legs no doubt, and then the paternal Canadian government will undoubtedly provide more nurses to shepherd these famous babies. Dangers for infants increase with the range of their pedestrian ambitions. California's irrigating ditches annually claim too many of these toddlers.

Again the CCC boys have been called out to help quell forest fires. This time on the American river near the Rawhide mine. The lookout reports the fire is in a tough spot. This means extra hazards for the fire fighters and extra hard work to halt the sweep of the flames. We have President Roosevelt to thank for the CCC boys, and the CCC boys to thank for thousands of acres of forest lands that have NOT burned these past two years. To those that know anything of the history of forest devastation in the past ten years, and realize the effective work done by the CCC enrollies, nothing in the New Deal has merited more praise than the President's plan of saving our forests and saving our boys.

The State Board of Equalization, after earnest studying the new Sales Tax act, decides that food of every kind is exempt, though as a matter of fact the law states that only essential food products are exempt from tax. What are essential foods, asked the board. Solomon in all his wisdom would have a hard time deciding, so the board decides that all foods are essential. To a Russian, his caviar, to an Englishman his kippered herring, to a Scotsman his oats, and to an Italian his pastes. Essential foods differ with national tastes and heredity. Fortunately the lawmakers made no distinction between essential and non-essential clothing. All clothing must pay a 3 per cent tax. Even our campfire girl visitors must pay their very tiny tax.

For three consecutive years the Golden Bears have won the national championship in the big Poughkeepsie boat race. As a United States Senator remarked when he heard that Gov. Merriam was a candidate for the Presidency, "It must be the climate."

Next Thursday the Twin Cities will jointly celebrate in Grass Valley the Fourth. Nevada City will provide a handsome section of the long procession of floats and marching organizations. We can all rejoice in this community celebration. While the two cities build closer together along the four-mile highway that separates them, we grow closer together in community ideals and endeavors. The upbuilding of the mining interest in this county is so great and so worthy a goal, that all citizens can unite wholeheartedly in the effort, confident that as mining is developed each one of us shall prosper.

Herbert Hoover, who will address the great gathering next Thursday in Memorial Hall, Grass Valley, it is reliably reported, will in a few weeks announce that he will not be a candidate for President next year. The former president has indicated that his criticisms of the New Deal have been made as the titular head of the Republican party. We have never for a moment suspected that Mr. Hoover would again be a candidate. It would certainly be very unbecoming a former president to criticise the policies of his successor in office, if he cherished an ambition again to occupy the White House. But as the head of a great party, he has every right to voice his viewpoint. Indeed it would be hard to deny him a right which is not denied the humblest citizen.

The murderer of an unidentified man at the Salmon mine May 19, has not yet been apprehended. There are circumstances surrounding this crime which make it one of the most difficult to solve. Nearly six weeks has elapsed, however, since it was committed. Under the circumstances is would seem to be incumbent on the county authorities to ask the aid of State Attorney General, a recourse in cases of this kind which the law now provides.

TWO KILLED IN MINE BLAST TO REST IN VISALIA

The coroner's jury, held Saturday morning returned a verdict that the death of the two men who were killed at the Gracy mine near Nevada City last Friday afternoon met their death "as the result of a mine accident."

Mining men at the Gracy and members of the coroner's jury believe that the two men, Charles R. Seehuber, 41, and Albert Sharp, 23, brother-in-law were instantly killed by the blast after they had given one half of the signal that firing of the nine holes was underway. It is believed that the two men, under-estimating the time of the burning fuses had returned to split one or two which did not previously light.

Seehuber leaves a wife and three children, Sharp a wife and one child.

The bodies were shipped to Visalia by Jefford and Son, for interment.

CHAMBER SEEKS NEW QUARTERS

The Nevada City Chamber of Commerce has received a notice to vacate its present quarters in the Elks building in order to make room for the expanding activities of the Forest Service. While it is not definitely settled yet, it is expected that quarters will be provided for the chamber in the Transscript-Davies building on Commercial street. Frank Davies, the owner, has agreed to finish up one of the rooms on the ground floor, formerly used by his stage service.

SPRING HILL MINE

About 25 men are employed at the Spring Hill mine, which adjoins the Idaho-Maryland mine north of Grass Valley. In their big plan of development, the modern dry house, office, and warehouse have been completed and men are now laying the concrete foundations for the big mill. The company is waiting for the hoist to arrive. Work is progressing rapidly and in three weeks all work should be completed exceut the mill which will go into production about September first. H. R. Plate of Nevada City is superintendent.

TEXACO COMPANY HAS LEASED PLAZA GARAGE

The Texaco Company has taken over the Plaza Garage under a lease and took control today. Frank Davis and sons will operate the service station and garage under a sub lease. A. L. Lane will continue to operate the automobile repair business.

Gove Celio from whom the business was bought will continue the car sales and mine buss business. He will have the Chevrolet and Oldsmobile car agencies.

G. RUDE WILL VISIT CANADA, MIDDLE WEST

Mr. G. Rude who has sold his Auto Camp business to E. B. Cain of Red Bluff will leave for a long vacation trip which will take him into Canada and through the middle west of the United States, culminating in a visit to his old home in Wisconsin. He plans to return to Nevada City next year and make this place his permanent home and will enter business here, probably entering the building business which he had been engaged in before he entered the auto camp business here.

RECKLESS DRIVER PLEADS

D. Del Groso, who yesterday ran into a telephone pole on West Pine street, was arrested this morning by Chief Garfield Robson, brought before Police Judge Miles Coughlin, where he waived preliminary examination and pleaded guilty to reckless driving. Judge Coughlin took the matter of sentence under advisement.

"Have you seen Professor Gabby, the scientist, lately?"

"Yes, I listened to him for more than an hour at the club last night."

"Indeed! What was he talking about?"

"He didn't say."

HAIL AND RAIN IS PRELUDE OF FOURTH

With a preliminary shower of large hailstones a storm broke over this section this noon accompanied by a prodigious discharge of thunder. Rain fell steadily for more than an hour. Women in light summer dresses and delicate straw hats fluttered hurriedly to shelter, galoshes made their appearances, and automobiles had to serve for umbrellas. An unusual phenomenon was the red color exhibited in the lightning flashes. Lightning usually is a white incandescence.

DAVIDSON HOME SOLD TO PAUL LAGERQUIST

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Davidson and two children left today for Loma Linda where they will make their home. Mr. Davirson has a position in a garage in that place.

The Davidsons sold their new home on Nimrod and Clay streets to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lagerquist who after making some changes in it will move in. Mr. Lagerquist is superintendent of the Banner mine.

SERVICES AT COUNTY HOSPITAL

Rev. Charles Washburn delivered his last sermon of the season at the Trinity Episcopal church Sunday. After the service Rev. Washburn and the choir went to the county hospital where he gave a service, at two o'clock. Little Erik Andersen sang two songs and the choir composed of Mrs. Schrader and daughter, Mr. Kruger and Mrs. Christian Andersen, accompanied by Mrs. Oakley Johns, rendered several lovely songs.

JOHN GHIDOTTI WRITES FROM THE PHILIPPINES

The following is a letter just received from John Ghidotti by his brother, Frank Ghidotti of this city. John left here about two months ago for the Philippine Islands. James Woods, LaMar Fleming and Dal Godfrey, all of whom are mentioned in the letter, are former Nevada City residents and the latter two are natives of this city.

May 22, 1935.

Dear Frank:

I am fine and hope that this letter finds you all in the best of health. I arrived in Manila, May 10 and came to Baguio May 11, 1935 and to the mine the same day. Antamok Goldfields mining company is about nine to ten miles from Baguio the summer resort of the Orient.

I am staying at the Antamok Goldfields boarding house and working for them but at another property about two to three miles over the hill which they are working on a percentage basis and is called the Gold Creek Corporation. My only boss is the general manager and my title is general superintendent. I have my own deisel plant for compressing air and lights for camp. I have a general merchandise store, office, materials, a storehouse, native camp for 300 men, office staff of two clerks, Philipino engineer, one truck, order all timber, powder, in fact all supplies. I am the only American running the whole property. I also have two aerial tramways about 1500 feet long. There is a six room house over there but is occupied by an American and his wife who used to be the superintendent, but who was transferred to Antamok Goldfields property. He is living there until they build a house for him. I hope I get the house as it has all comforts of life. Hot and cold water, shower bath, frigidaire, three bed rooms, kitchen, sitting room and inside is all finished in hardwood. I'll have a cook and a boy for a flunkey.

Saw Mert Downey, Dal Godfrey, and Lamar Fleming and they are all fine. Lamar took me over to the Benguet Cons. Mines and introduced me to the superintendent. They wanted to hire me for $250 a month and after three months $275.

It is the beginning of the rainy season, not so bad yet but I am told it rains here sometimes about 36 inches in 24 hours. The season's rainfall is about 250 inches. I don't imagine it gets over 80 or 85 degrees in temperature, but its the humidity due to moisture that makes is so oppressive. Manila gets about 95 degrees and it gets as hot and suffocating as hell. I think the elevation at my camp is about 3,000 feet above sea level and Lamar's about 2,000 feet.

I never saw so many bugs, insects, cockroaches, butterflies, etc., in my life. There are two classes of natives here, the lowlanders (known as Phillippineo) who come from around Manila or coast and the Igorrote (Indian). Some of them only wear a gee string around their waist. The main food is rice and fish. Their big dish is roast dog. They used to have a dog market in Baguio where they bought their dogs. They feed them on rice and nothing else for about two weeks before they kill them. They work anywhere barefooted and have in fact only the gee string. They polk everything on their heads and the men, women and children all, smoke cigars.

Cigarettes, such as Camels, Chesterfields, etc., cost seven cents American, a package and native cigarettes cost about 20 cents for 30 cigarettes.

The exchange here is two (pesos, dollars) Philippinos for one dollar American. It is standardized by the American government. Either currency is good. Nearly all of the people speak American, English, some a little Spanish, and some an Indian dialect which I don't know the name of.

All meat excepting chickens come from Australia or United States as they don't eat the native meat. Chicken is the cheapest meat of all at about 20 cents a pound dressed; leg of lamb about 35 cents; American rib roast, 30 cents; sirloin steak 40 ments; sheep kidney, 45 cents; American lettuce and celery about 25 cents a head. All comes in cold pack or refrigeration.

The company I am working for, Antamok Goldfields mining company, produces 400 tons of ore daily and expect to increase capacity to 1,000 tons daily. They have an ore body 300 feet long and from 30 to 90 feet wide on the 830 level. There is no shaft, it is all gravity mining. It is the third largest mine in the islands.

The Balatoc or the Benguet mine Goldfields and the Benguet Cons. adjoins our property on the other side. Lamar Fleming is superintendent at Benguet Cons., and Jim Woods is superintendent at Balatoc.

is about two miles from the Antamok Goldfields.

Over the period of the past 12 months the national bank has increased $130,947,000 in deposits. During the same period it has voluntarily returned $15,000,000 in Postal Savings deposits to the U. S. Post Office Department, and has retired $45,500,000 in outstanding circulation.

In line with the increase in deposits, cash and due from banks increased $34,187,000 and investments in U. S. Government bonds and other securities gained $74,135,000 and surplus has been increased $2,500,000 by a transfer from undivided profits. Bank of America N. T. & S. A. still leads all banks of the nation in the number and dollar value of loans made under the National Housing Act, with 15,240 loans made in the total amount of $9,395.493.

JAMES D. PEARSON SUCCUMBS TODAY

James Dickie Pearson, aged 63 years, passed away at the county hospital pay ward this morning after a years illness. He leaves to mourn his passing three daughters, Mrs. Neva Pianezzi, of this city, Mrs. Eliza Hocking and Myrtle, of Grass Valley; a son, Sherman Pearson, of Nevada City, three grandchildren, besides a brother who resides in Sacramento. His wife passed away several years ago. Mr. Pearson followed mining and was a highly respected citizen of this community.

Funeral services will be held at the Holmes Funeral Home Wednesday at 2 o'clock. Interment will be made in Greenwood cemetery at Grass Valley with Rev. H. H. Buckner conducting the services. Holmes Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

PETTY THIEVES CAUSE MUCH ANNOYANCE

James Grimes came down from the American Flag mine, above Camptonville in which he is interested, today and was quite disgusted that thieves had broken into his shop and stolen the blower off his forge and a vice. This is the fourth year tthieves have taken from this property, one year the cabin was stripped clean, the marauders losing a stew pan lid on the hill side nearby in their flight. Mr. Grimes was out $12 for these round trips, besides. He took two men to the property June 27th and they are doing assessment work for the coming year.

Fred Joubert of Camptonville, who operates the Depot Hill and Indian Hill gravel properties stated he lost $100 worth of tools from his property last year.

Mr. and Mrs. George Gildersleeve of Nevada City who own mining property near Lake City, on a recent visit there found their cabin broken into and many articles stolen.

While these losses do not run into a lot of money it is aggravating to have property stolen and get into the mountains and find all of your possessions gone late at night as has happened in one or two of these cases.

SERA PAY DAY

Change in SERA pay day schedule: Pay day will be at 3:30 p. m. Wednesday at the Nevada City city hall.

New Taxes Levied On Both Quick and Dead

(By RALPH H. TAYLOR)

EDITOR'S NOTE:—This is the first in a series of articles by Ralph H. Taylor, Executive Secretary of the Agricultural Council of California—representing the state's major cooperatives—analyzing the work of the 1935 State Legislature as it affects both the farmer and the general public, No other Legislature in the state's history has delved so deeply into the pocketbooks and the every-day, work-a1day lives of California citizens as the Legislature just concluded and no California citizen can afford to disregard it. Mr. Taylor, a recognized authority on problems of state government, interprets the legislative show as it bears on your family, your business and your security.

Eet, drink and be merry—for tomorrow it may cost you double!

Such, if he knows the worst, is the probable reaction today of that peculiarly anonymous fellow—The Average Californian—as he contemplates the future in light of the 1935 State Legislature's past.

And even if he considers the original and unabridged ending of the epigram—the undoubted truth that he must surely die—Mr. Citizen will still be in a bad way. For California's lawmakers played no favorites. They increased the cost of dying—by increasing the inheritance tax—just as they increased the cost of living—by increasing the sales tax.

All in all, the Legislature left the taxpayer in a sorry plight. But each blames the other for the debacle. The Legislature says, with a certain degree of accuracy, that the public has constantly (and even recklessly) piled demand on demand for more service—and that the public must consequently expect to pay the bill. And the taxpayer retorts, also with some truthfulness, that he wanted nothing so much as fewer services, less overhead and lower taxes.

The truth of the story is that in between the Legislature and the average taxpayer came organized minorities (representing various sections of the general public) demanding their due, often with little or no regard for mounting costs and skyrocketing tax rates. And it is equally true—still being impartial—that no Legislature in the history of mankind fas more responsive to the dictates of organized minorities than the Legislature just ended.

BIGGEST STATE BUDGET

Reflecting, in large part, the unrest of the times and the bewildered groping of the rank and file of the people, for a way out of the economic wilderness, the 1935 session broke records and precedents with equal abandon — running for 125 days (and many nights) to go down in the books as the longest, most expensive, most exasperating, most contradictory and most nerve-racking legislative meeting since California achieved statehood.

Wallowing in superlatives, it passed the biggest state budget in history—$376,000,000!

Again, to make good its commitments, it enacted the biggest state tax program in history — roughly $366,000,000, as the experts compute it.

And of the total tax program approximately $117,500,000 represented new taxes. A major share of this new load, however, was required to offset the shift of public utility properties from the state to the counties under the Riley-Stewart Tax Relief Plan, broadening the local tax base to relieve common property taxpayers. The state's loss—and the counties' gain—by this shift is estimated at $65,000,000 per biennium.

ECONOMY SENTIMENT LACKING

In sharp contrast to the session of two years ago, which was marked by an avalanche of "economy legislation," with fact-finding commissions diligently probing for means of retrenchment, the Legislature of 1935 was notable chiefly for the myriad schemes proposed to raise new revenues, with an almost complete absence of economy sentiment.

But again, in fairness to the lawmakers, they were undoubtedly reflecting the attitude of their people back home—the new policy of "priming the pump," creating jobs and putting money in circulation. In the abstract, to be sure, every taxpayer is a sincere believer in economy. But in actual practice—in his demands on the Legislature and in his voting at the ballot box — the California taxpayer has pobably been just as improvident as his lawmekers.

Perhaps the most significant trend of the session was the general disposition to "take it away from the man who has it"—a midified "share the wealth" program carried out under the guise of taxation. No one can deny the fundamental soundness of using capacity to pay as one of the yardsticks in measuring tax responsibility, but the present danger seems to be that the policy will be carried to such extremes that the thrifty and industrious will be penalized to provide for the careless and indolent.

LAST RITES HELD FOR DOMENICO CALLEGARI

Funeral rites were held today for the late Domenico Calligari who passed away in Sutter hospital in Sacramento Saturday. The late Mr. Calligari was a native of Capella, Italy, born in 1881. He had resided in this section more than 25 years and was highly esteemed by all who knew him.

He was a member of Corte Cristofero Columbo and Nevada City Foresters and they conducted the funeral services. Interment was at Pine Grove ecmetery. Funeral services were held at the Holmes Funeral Home.

MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL IS DENIED P. G. E. CO.

Judge Raglan Tuttle yesterday denied the motion made by the Pacific Gas & Electric company for a new trial in the suit brought by the Nevada Irrigation District against the companyy. The jury awarded the district almost $200,000 for water delivered to the P. G. & E. during 1927. It is expected that the P. G. & E. will now appeal.

A Fine Old Town

The old rock miner looked amazed—
"She's a great old town," said he;
"And you can bet she's changed, by heck,
Since I left her in sixty three.

There's telephones in every house,
An' radios the same;
But them new ice chests has me stumped,
Yeah, frig-i-dare's the name.

I sees new restrants an' homes
The swimmin' pool's a wow;
The folks I meets ain't braggin' much,
They just saws wood, an' how!

Gas buggies clutter up the streets—
They honk both night an' day;
My burro's for sale an' my salted claim,
An' it's here I aims to stay.

The old rock miner settled down—
"She's a fine old town," said he,
"An' there ain't none better in the west,
So far as I can see."

A. MERRIAM CONNER.

EAGLE BIRD MINE

Four men are employed in repairing pipe lines, flumes, and keeping the mine shaft unwatered at the Eagle Bird mine southeast of Washington. The pipe line to the penstock is also being repaired, this property was operated by power generated by water. Plans are to take a compressor to the property shortly.

RELIEF HILL

It is reported that in the Archie Miller mine at Relief Hill has been uncovered some very fine rock.

WEEKLY COMMENT

BY

Christian Andersen

The first 4th of July which I spent in the United States held many thrills. The great parades in Chicago, the afternoon picnic with friends in Jackson park, the trip to the Lincoln Park Zoo and of course the culinary exelence of the day's special viands, the ice cream and all the knick knacks of a Fourth of July picnic by no means were overlooked.

It was explained to me that the Fourth corresponded to the Danish Grundlovsdag, which translated means the fundamental law or really the Danish declaration of independence from the despotism of an absolute monarchy. This Fourth comes just a month earlier than the Danish celebration.

Later as American history pages gave the story of my new native land, it took on a greater significance. To some it is a day of reflection and rest and to others it is a day of feasting and drinking, perhaps drunkeness. But however it is celebrated, it is still the day used to remind us that from that date in the early history of this country, dates the establishment of idealistic government by the people themselves.

H. M. L. in his Nugget column of Friday last said that he could almost forecast the gist of the speech of the distinguished Fourth of July speaker next Thursday. It seems to me that politicians have worn the language threadbare with their speeches. They are either at each other's political throats hacking away openly or by inuendo discrediting each other's doings. When they are out they want to be in and when they are in they are continually having to alibi their way out of some scrape or other. By appearing in the limelight they take on a pseudo importance and their sayings take on the sanctity of the oracle while in reality their feet of clay show as plainly as the wart on my neighbor's nose.

The roaring eighties in North San Juan will soon be re-enacted in that town. This time the celebration will be a general fiesta such as California towns know so well. Arrangements are being made to do something unique which has woven in it the thread of artistry with a big dash of fun for everyone who attends this grand celebration. It will take place sometime in August just before the State Fair. As the plans are before me it seems not out of the way to say that this North San Juan Fiesta will have all the features and a lot of new angles which will make it most interesting.

Instead of saying as scarce as hen's teeth, nowadays one could correctly say as scarce as women's hatpins. I haven't seen one in fifteen years.

I had my eye on a Lilium Tigrida (Tiger Lily) and was waiting patiently for it to blossom when lo, another guy and his lady, before my very eyes picked, and carried it off to their cave and I did not even get a smell of it.

CHERRIES!

It is reported that throughout California there is a shortage of cherries but there is one tree at least that had a-plenty. A limb from a large tree in the yard of Mrs. Martha Hogue on the Tahoe-Ukiah highway just outside the city limits broke off and from this limb 150 pounds of luscious cherries were picked.

MR. AND MRS. OTT HAVE RETURNED FROM SOUTH

Mr. and Mrs. Emil N. J. Ott have just returned from a two weeks vacation in which they visited San Francisco, Los Angeles, Santa Monica, Catalina Island, the San Diego Exposition and cities in Old Mexico. Mo. Ott states that business is going forward at a rapid rate throughout the southern end of the state. All houses are occupied and rents are advancing. Retail business shows a tremendous gain. Every moment of the vacation, which Mr. Ott says is the first one in twenty years, was thoroughly enjoyed.

DEVELOPING NEW GROUND

Archie Miller and Paine Brothers of near Lake City have taken up virgin prospect near North Bloomfield. The property is on the same ledge as the Jay claim of Christopher Peterson, being located to the south and is an extension. At present the men are tracing an enormous fissure vein over the property which seemingly holds much promise of yielding gold. There are apparently three parallel veins with strong outcrops. Some prospecting was done on the ground in early days. The discovery of gold at this point is new, but float, rock containing gold has been found below the ledges. The Jay claim owned by Mr. Peterson has yielded a lot of high grade ore in the last two years.
